Care & Use: Large Venue Welded Seam Screens

Welded seams are very strong and durable, but it is best to avoid putting undue stress on the seam itself. Do not poke the seam with force as it may cause a dimple in the seam. Additionally, do not allow any sharp objects near the seam to avoid ripping or tearing. If you purchased raw material, it will have a small strip of material over the seam's edge which should NOT be removed.

Remove your product from the shipping package immediately upon receipt and allow the fabric to relax for a day or so before installing. The front of the screen will always be folded facing in, to protect the projection surface, and the back will be facing out.

The absolute best way to remove folds/wrinkles is to use tension-mounting. When a screen is stretched (or bungeed) evenly around the screen we call this tensioned (tight like an artist canvas, drum or trampoline). Once installed and the proper tension has been applied evenly all the way around the screen, the folds should pull out nicely. Learn more about building a frame at: www.carlofet.com

Wind is powerful, make sure your screen is properly anchored. It is safe to leave your screen outside for short-term periods (handful of days per summer), but long-term it is best to take the screen down to protect it from the elements. When you do take it down, make sure it is clean and dry to avoid mold and mildew on the screen.

If you have a portable Finished Edge Screen and you plan to store the screen, fold the screen loosely. Due to the grommets, do not roll it.

You can lightly spot clean your screen with water and a Q-tip, soft rag or sponge. Mild dish soap can be used in small areas with a light touch. Please use care so you do not injure the reflective coating and always test in a very small area first. Do NOT use abrasives, steam clean, dry clean or place in a washing machine.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure - do your best to setup, use and store your screen in a safe, clean and dry environment.
